

The call that saved my life.

Carla Cranston

A living testament to the Executive Health Exam

"Earlier this year my husband heard about the Executive Health Exam. When I called to sign him up, I was asked if I wanted to sign up as well. I said yes. Little did I know that call would save my life.

My exam included a lung scan on Black Hills Surgery Center's state-of-the-art 64-Slice CT scanner. It revealed a nodule on my right upper lung. It was cancer, and I was immediately scheduled for surgery.

My doctors said if not for the exam and early detection, my cancer could have progressed, without symptoms, to an inoperable stage.

Sure, I may have lost part of my lung, but I gained years on my life."

Follow Carla's example. Don't wait until you have symptoms—it may be too late.

The Executive Health Exam is a comprehensive exam designed to detect hidden abnormalities and evaluate your risk factors and potentially harmful habits that can often be corrected with lifestyle changes.
